FLUSH MOUNT ALBUMS

A robust album that carries its weight in a crafted feel with rigid, thick unbending pages Flush Mounted on Substrate Core a Hand-crafted to last for generations. Our flush mount albums have coating that protects against spills and stains. Silver, black or gold gilding options available. Library binding.

Traditional inkjet printing uses a CMYK halftoning method. This consists of small dots packed closely together to give the illusion of transitions. Halftoning can never faithfully reproduce a photo's true tones, depths or gradations.

If you examine halftone prints closely you'll notice grainy noise added where there should be soft smooth transitions. It does not matter whether a printing press uses 4 colors, 6 colors or 8 color "HD" printing. They all rely on halftone CMYK technology, which is fundamentally gamut limited.

Real photo printing doesn't use halftoning. Instead it uses a chemical process done through exposure practices that have been practiced for 100 years. The final result is a real photo with truly seamless tones where no transition is apparent.
